Ancient Pagan Gods Being Honored Around the U.S. and World.

The same group that re-created the Roman triumphal arch that once welcomed travelers to the Temple of Baal is now honoring another pagan deity by recreating a statue of the goddess Athena which once stood in Palmyra, according to Breaking Israel News.

The exhibit of Athena, though venerated as a goddess of reason, was also known as a war goddess. The exhibit is being hosted at the U.N. headquarters in New York City. It's another move by globalist organizations to honor pagan deities just months after the "Arch of Baal" went on a world tour, including being placed outside the G7 meeting of the world's industrialized nations.

Pagan values and traditions have never left us. Even Jews and Christians are impacted by them. And those values are not innocent because the gods of paganism are actually demons, according to the Bible. It's not something to be played with. Why would the United Nations be involved in resurrecting these occult images and icons of the past? Do they not understand what this represents, the false gods of child sacrifice and all kinds of abominations and perversions?" (wnd.com 12/10)
